HAILE MAY SUE FOR PEACE; TWO TOWNS FALL

Standard 'Pulls Fast One' As Beach Oil Probe Re-Opens

OIL COMPANY HIRES STATE SURVEYOR

Fullerton Man Employed First By Committee, Then By 'Suspects' AWAIT FUND ANSWER

Senators Seeking Way To Pay Employee On Tidelands Case

Has the Standard Oil company outsmarted Senator Culbert Olson and his state senate oil committee investigating production at Huntington Beach?

The committee several weeks ago hired Alexander Anderson, Fullerton oil well surveyor, to investigate about 100 wells which it is contended may be tapping state-owned tideland oil at Huntington Beach. But now the Standard Oil company of California has Mr. Anderson in its employ.

Hearings Resumed
Senator Olson told of this development today as his committee resumed hearings at Los Angeles. He said Mr. Anderson had been employed by the Standard while the committee was trying to find means to pay the engineer for his surveys. The Standard is one of the concerns which Senator Olson contends may be tapping the state pool, according to the Associated Press.

At the committee's first hearing in Huntington Beach, Senator Olson said Governor Merriam had promised him $15,000 and maybe $20,000 to carry on investigations. However, Senator Olson said today that later the governor informed him it might be illegal to use this money for a survey and that an opinion was being sought from the attorney general's office.

Knows of No Opinion
While the opinion was awaited, the senator asserted, Oscar Lawler, attorney for Standard, told him the company had hired Mr. Anderson. He quoted Mr. Lawler as saying the company had been informed the attorney general had disapproved use of the state money and that Standard would have Mr. Anderson survey its 43 wells in order to aid the investigating committee.

Senator Olson said the attorney general's office later advised him no such opinion had been given. Other members of the committee are Senators Nelson Edwards, Orange; Edgar Stow, Santa Barbara; J. I. Wagy, Bakersfield, and Ray Hays, Fresno.

While Mr. Wilson had Mr. Lawler on the stand, Senator Stow (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

Crash Scatters Cement at Fourth and Broadway

When an east-bound Pacific Electric car struck a truck and trailer loaded with two tons of sacked cement at 6:25 a. m. today at Fourth and Broadway, cement was spread all over the intersection, the P. E. car was derailed and traffic at the intersection was blocked for four hours. The motorman, conductor and six passengers on the car, as well as George Youngman, Ontario, driver of the truck, were uninjured. See story on Page 9. (Photo by Tock)

SCHOOL SAFE IS LOOTED

$111 Taken From Board Of Education Office Saturday Night

Burglars Saturday night entered the board of education offices, 1012 North Main street, knocked the dial from the safe, punched out the tumblers and removed a cash box which contained $111 in cash and a check for $30.

First intimation that a burglary had been committed came to the police department at 5:30 a. m. yesterday when E. B. Riniker, 1424 North Broadway, reported that he had found a cash box on Fifteenth street between Broadway and Durant street. Detective Lieutenant Charles Wolford investigated and found that the cash box had been forced open. Nearby he found a check for $30 made out to the board of education, and several papers.

Officer Wolford then went to the board of education offices where he found the north door had been forced open, and discovered the safe had been entered. George Newcomb, business manager for the board, then entered and told Officer Wolford he had just heard of the burglary from Mrs. Margaret Hadley. Mrs. Hadley had gone to the board offices earlier in the morning to get an adding machine and had discovered evidence of the crime.

Buster Keaton Is Confined To Psychopathic Ward

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21. (AP)—Buster Keaton, screen comedian of the frozen face, was confined today in the psychopathic ward of the National Military home at Sawtelle, hospital authorities disclosed today. Suffering from a nervous breakdown, the comedian was taken to the hospital late yesterday in a straight-jacket.

Physicians at the military home said Keaton today was in an "extremely confused mental state," and that further diagnosis was to be made late today.

Financial and domestic troubles aggravated Keaton's condition, his personal physician, Dr. John Shuman, said.

RUTH NICHOLS BADLY HURT

Noted Aviatrix And Five Others Injured In Airplane Crash

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 21. (AP)—Miss Ruth Nichols, one of America's ace airwomen, and five of her employees were injured today in the crash of a big 20 passenger plane at Troy airport. A few minutes after they had escaped, the plane burst into flames and was destroyed.

Miss Nichols and her crew have been making exhibition flights over Troy for a week or more, giving 10 per cent of the proceeds to charity. When the chip took off today on another flight, it apparently got into mechanical trouble shortly after leaving the field.

The plane banked and turned to make for the airport, and just as it was about to make a final drop for a landing it plummeted to the ground.

Miss Nichols was removed to a hospital. (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

FARM RELIEF LAW VOIDED

District Court Declares Frazier-Lemke Rule Unconstitutional

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 21. (AP)—The amended Frazier-Lemke farm debt relief law was held unconstitutional today by Judge Charles P. Briggie and J. Earl Major of the United States district court.

The ruling was given on petition of William W. Young, Fulton county farmer, who sought to come into court under the amended law, passed by congress after the crash of a big 20 passenger plane at Troy airport. A few minutes after they had escaped, the plane burst into flames and was destroyed.

Young's creditors objected, alleging the unconstitutionality of the amended law.

STORM TRAILS F.D.R. SHIP

ABOARD THE U. S. S. HOUSTON ENROUTE TO THE UNITED STATES, Oct. 21. (AP)—President Roosevelt closely watched weather reports today of a hurricane trailing the Houston out of the Caribbean sea as this ship sped along the eastern fringe of the Bahama islands.

Previous plans to stop today off Crooked Island were canceled to await the latest reports of the tropical disturbance, reported to the President last night by the Jacksonville weather bureau. The effects of the gale were felt yesterday and last night as the Houston and the Portland encountered rough seas, high winds and severe squalls traveling through the windward passage, between Cuba and Haiti.

Newport Dream Soon To Be Realized; Completion Of Harbor Set For November

By "BRICK" GAINES

A dream is coming true to Newport harbor. For many years Orange county residents have visualized their harbor a haven for all type of pleasure craft, for naval vessels and for smaller cargo carriers. They have worked for years to bring the land-locked bay to a point of development where it would be accessible not only to the largest of yachts, but to coastwise steamers.

Since 1907 local boosters have worked toward a deep, safe harbor. By next month, all of their wishes will be granted. Some time during November, army engineers will announce program of dredging Newport harbor completed, with the exception of removal of one ledge of rock. They will announce completion of two sweeping breakwaters, which will protect the entrance channel of the bay and prevent filling with sand at any future time.

323 TREMORS FELT DURING TEN DAYS

RFC Sponsors Loans For Damaged Homes; 500 Camp In Tents

GUARDS ON STREETS
City Council To Order Tearing Down Of All Unsafe Buildings

HELENA, Mont., Oct. 21. (AP)—Windows were shattered by a fresh series of earth shocks which tore today the taut nerves of this capital city of 12,000 persons beset by 10 days of tremors and damage of million dollar proportions.

At 9 a. m. the total number of tremors since last Friday night had reached 264 and the grand total, since Oct. 12, was 323.

As reconstruction Finance Corporation representatives announced plans for loans for rehabilitation of damage to property, display windows crashed with recurrent jolts, some of which were two seconds duration. No further casualties and no major damage was reported.

500 Refugees
Additional discomfort was suffered by the 400 to 500 refugees camped in national guard tents on the military grounds west of the city as temperatures dropped sharply.

The city council hurried plans for ordering destruction of heavily damaged structures and control of weakened buildings.

Windows along Jackson adjacent to the Montana Record Herald were broken by a shock at 3:33 a. m.

At 6:22 a. m. came the latest severe disturbance with others of lighter intensity following.

Repair activities were hastened as temperatures dipped below the freezing point during the night.

All sections of the city, householders were at work cleaning debris and improvising chimneys to serve pending permanent repairs.

The city's heating problem was simplified when the Montana Power company said a checkup revealed all gas mains had remained intact through the death-dealing tremors. Gas is used extensively for heating in Helena.

Guardmen on Patrol
About 35 national guardmen, equipped with steel helmets and rifles, patrolled the business district.

All public places remained closed under strict orders of the city council.

The council met to draft an ordinance condemning all buildings found unsafe.

Many residents who fled from their homes returned, hopeful that there would be no repetition of Friday night's terrifying quake (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 8)

CRASH FATAL TO SAILOR

Machine Hurtles Into Ditch At Capistrano; Four Others Hurt

Killed in county traffic accidents this year 49
Killed in county traffic accidents same time last year 41

P. E. Sanchez, 19, sailor from Cedar Rapids, Ia., met instant death shortly after noon Saturday when the car in which he was riding failed to make a curve in the highway two miles north of San Juan Capistrano, and hurtled end over end into a barranca.

Four other sailors, all of the U. S. S. Lawrence, San Diego, also passengers in the car, were injured.

According to a report made by highway patrolmen today, the driver of the car, W. P. Dickson, 24, Atlanta, Ga., was unable to keep the car on the highway. The machine traveled for 120 feet along the left shoulder of the road, crashed through a cedar tree, breaking it off three feet above the ground and uprooting the stump. The machine then turned end over end and landed on its top in the bottom of the barranca, 15 feet below the road level.

Sanchez and another passenger in the car, G. A. Mentzer, 18, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., who were riding in the rumble seat, were pinned beneath the wreckage. Mentzer suffered a fractured left arm and a compound fracture of the right leg. The other occupants of the car, L. Roseman, 21, Akron, Ohio, and A. N. Powlas, 29, Cleveland, N. C., were not seriously injured. All of the injured men were taken to the naval hospital in San Diego. Sanchez' body was ordered removed to the Divel mortuary in San Clemente pending an inquest by the coroner.

NEW HOPE OF PEACE SEEN IN LONDON

Tension Easing in Rome, Paris May Lead to Definite Talks

DUCE'S OFFER HINTED
Mussolini Sends Ideas to Laval, Report; Await Election

ROME, Oct. 21. (AP)—Joint withdrawal of British battleships from the Mediterranean and Italian troops from Libya were envisaged today in conversations between Sir Eric Drummond, British ambassador to Rome, and Fulvio Suvich, Italian under-secretary for foreign affairs.

LONDON, Oct. 21. (AP)—Authoritative quarters dropped hints today that a new plank for peace in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict had begun to crystallize at Rome, Paris and London as the result of easing of tension in those capitals over the week-end.

These quarters emphasized, however, that the move was in the very earliest stage and it would be erroneous to say anything definite had yet developed or any great optimism prevailed.

Informed circles, which showed the greatest reluctance to discuss the development, said it was not impossible that some concrete gesture for relieving military measures in the Mediterranean might be taken shortly, to be followed by definite peace talks.

Must Please Three
It was plainly stated that any plan broached must be satisfactory to Ethiopia, Italy and the League of Nations, and ultimately must be concluded within the framework of the league.

Authoritative quarters declared they were "quite pleased and satisfied" with Saturday's note from Premier Laval of France, which was considered a restatement of France's friendship.

It was felt to be an unconditional affirmative answer on points raised by the British government (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 6)

GETTING READY FOR WINTER
Journal in Magazine Offer

Orange county people in large numbers were preparing for winter today. In addition to the stocks of jellies and jams and pickles and fruits, so bountiful in Southern California, they were availing themselves of an almost unheard-of offer to augment their stock of reading matter for the long, winter evenings.

Many were astounded at first to learn they could have The Journal delivered at their homes every afternoon and in addition receive three interesting magazines, all for 65 cents a month—the price they pay for most newspapers alone.

Here is the plan as announced by the publishers:

You can get the three magazines and The Journal at a subscription price of only 65 cents per month for eight months, plus a registration fee of 30 cents. After the eight months are up you pay only the regular Journal subscription price of 50 cents per month. But the magazines keep on coming—some of them for a total period of two years!

All you need to do to get your Journal carrier your order with a 30-cent registration fee, or you can phone 3600 and a smiling Journal carrier will come to your door.

ITALY SPEEDS PLANS FOR ATTACKS

Drive On Gorrhai Now Aim Of Forces From Southern Front

FASCIST HOLD OASES
Fascist Leader Frees Slaves In Captured Territory On North

By ANDRUE BEADING

ASMARA, Eritrea, Oct. 21. (AP)—The Italian army today received reports that Emperor Haile Selassie is ready to sue for peace. Authorities said, however, there was no official confirmation of the report and that military plans would proceed unaltered.

Present plans, these authorities said, call for a drive of the Italian Somaliland forces northward on Gorrhai, in Ogaden province. The capture of Gorrhai would strengthen the Italian position already improved by the seizure of the fortress of Dagnerrei Friday.

Advance 60 Miles
Today, Gen. Rudolfo Graziani's forces had already advanced 60 miles beyond their original line, according to this report, and were farther into Ethiopia than the northern army.

The complete possession of the rich oases such as those in the Scialevi region was said by military authorities to be of the highest importance.

The region has been the center of Ethiopian resistance and furnished food and water in abundance in the otherwise desert region.

During their forward movement, it was stated, the Italians took and occupied the towns of Burabodi and Scialevi which, like the stronghold of Dagnerrei are along the Webbe Shibli river.

Military authorities said General Graziani soon was expected to take Gorrhai, which is on the way to the Hama railway. This is near the only Ethiopian railway.

Italian aviator-scouts reported that Ethiopian troops were digging in at Makale, about 60 miles southeast of Adduwa and the next logical objective in the Italian campaign of occupation, forming a major concentration for a desperate effort to frustrate the next attack.

The troops of Ras Kassa, one of the most powerful of Ethiopia's chieftains, were reported assembling at Makale, a caravan train center for the Italian army. Ethiopian troops were concentrated point, and to Addis Ababa itself.

Ras Kassa's forces were joined there by a contingent of the crack imperial troops rushed to the north from the capital by Emperor Haile Selassie.

Bolster Defenses
Italian headquarters also received reports that other Ethiopian troops were marching daily (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

BANKHEAD ACT SUIT DELAYED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—The supreme court today directed the United States to show by Nov. 11 why Georgia should not be permitted to file a suit to test the constitutionality of the Bankhead Cotton Control act. A petition to file the suit has been presented in behalf of Governor Talmadge of Georgia.

The court's action delayed decision of whether it would consider the case brought by Georgia, which had been expected today.

SELASSIE WEEPINGLY SENDS 8,000 CRACK SOLDIERS TO FRONT

IL DUCE MAY SEEK PEACE IN CAPITAL

Duce May Use 'Ousted' Minister At Addis Ababa As Agent

By JAMES A. MILLS
ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 21. (AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie, his voice choked with emotion, today bade farewell to 8,000 of his crack imperial guard who departed for Dessye, about half way between the capital and Makale.

After shaking hands warmly with the Belgian officers who trained the imperial guardsmen, the emperor embraced each of the 40 Ethiopian officers and addressed each with an affectionate phrase.

Everybody Weeps
They were so affected by the emperor's tears they wept, too. Haile Selassie urged the 8,000 men to defend the empire to the last breath.

The government announced that France is commencing the railroad between Djibouti, French Somaliland, and the Ethiopian frontier for protection from Italian bombs. (No statements on Selassie's reported peace plans were given out.)

An official communique said France is commencing the railway earth roads leading to the railway so that armored cars and other equipment can be brought up quickly in the event of an attack from Italian military planes.

"This proves that France and Britain intend to impose their will upon Italy in case sanctions are ineffective," the communique said. A belief that Premier Mussolini may try to initiate direct peace negotiations with Emperor Haile Selassie, using Count Luigi Vinciguerra as an intermediary, strengthened today as the Italian minister remained here—11 days after being handed his passport.

300 Blinded
Three hundred Italian soldiers constructing a road from Mount Mussa Ali to the Ethiopian border on the central front were reported blinded when they attempted to cut down the deadly diphtheria cactus, the emanations of which are said to be capable of causing total blindness.

Apparently the Fascist forces had not been warned against this pernicious fungus, which in South American countries is cut down only at a distance with long pole like scythes.

Groups of leashed lions marched into the capital from the interior today, alongside groups of Emperor Selassie's warriors. This caused foreigners to believe the tribesmen might loose the lions against the Italians, but officials explained the beasts were intended as presents for the emperor.

Although the tribal warriors were chafing at delay in hostilities, government officials expressed pleasure at the interlude which allowed them to rush in munitions.

They hoped the League of Nations ultimatum for setting a date to enforce an economic boycott against Italy unless warfare is halted by Oct. 31 would hold up the launching of an Italian attack on the central plateau.

Reports that savage Danakil tribesmen cut off hundreds of Italians and killed or wounded 200 near Mount Mussa Ali went unconfirmed here, as did reports that Italian native troops, supported by bombing planes, captured two Ethiopian posts on the southern Ogaden province front.

'ARMY' BOARD POSTPONES MEETING

through a volunteer department. Faced with the situation of one property holder, which, Mayor A. T. Smith says, owes the city about $9669.46 more in delinquent taxes than the total city indebtedness in taxes and assessments the city has given an ultimatum to the Bank of America, in whose name property on which delinquent taxes and assessments total $81,553.76, stands.

Discontinue Service
The ultimatum to the bank is "either $2500 be supplied to meet the current city payroll or municipal services cease Nov. 1." It is understood that, in the event the $2500 is not forthcoming by night the council will approve a resolution temporarily discontinuing service of all city departments with the exception of the police and water department.

Records in the office of the city assessor reveal that at present the Bank of America owes the city in delinquent taxes and street lighting assessments a total of $27,919.95 plus $53,633.81 principal and interest on account of street improvement bonds under the 1915 bond act.

The city auditor's books show the total city indebtedness amounts to $71,889.30 divided as follows: Street lighting and governmental expenses $22,081.94; principal and interest on assessment bonds under the 1915 bond act, $48,452 and $1350 interest on the 1934 Water Works bond issue purchased by the federal government through Public Works administration.

In a statement today officials of the Bank of America denied direct ownership of the property against which the tax delinquencies are charged. They asserted that the property is "held in trust for a large group of beneficiaries and is not property directly owned by the bank for its own account."

Mayor Smith declared, "I do not know who may claim an interest in the property. All I know is that the property is assessed in the name of the Bank of America, and it is to that organization we look for collection of the delinquencies."

Officials of the Bank of America today issued the following statement from Los Angeles: "Taxes which are due the City of Santa Clemente are assessed again properties held in trust for a large group of beneficiaries and is not property directly owned by the bank for its own account."

Mayor Smith said "if they have money enough to open a new bank why shouldn't they pay taxes on the property they own at San Clemente."

He also declared that the bank did not "offer to be helpful in the emergency."

"If they pay the $2500 it is because they meet the demand that I made on them Saturday," he said this afternoon.

DRIVER ARRESTED AFTER CRACK-UP

A traffic accident at Eighth and Main streets at 8 p. m. yesterday resulted in the arrest of Wernith Bickel, 1417 South Ross street, Santa Ana, on a charge of drunk driving, and the recovery of a car that was being driven without the owner's permission.

The car, registered to Ed Farnsworth, Santa Ana, collided with a parked car belonging to John C. James, 1725 Valencia street, Santa Ana. Although Mr. Farnsworth said today the car was driven without his permission, he refused to sign a complaint.

SEWAGE PLANS TO BE TOLD

George Bates today revealed plans to tell the public about the possibilities of sewage reclamation in Orange county. Mr. Bates is chairman of the demonstration sewage reclamation project for which a plant has been operating in Santa Ana during the summer.

A joint meeting of the Santa Ana Rotary club and the membership of the chamber of commerce will take place at the Green Cat cafe on Oct. 29, said Mr. Bates.

At this session Harry N. Jenks of Berkeley, consulting engineer for the demonstration plant, will tell the story of its work and explain how sewage can be reclaimed for irrigation.

The affair will be in the nature of an open house event and those interested in hearing the program explained may make reservations.

Similar meetings will be held at Anaheim on Oct. 28 and at Fullerton on Oct. 30. Both will be joint affairs in which the Rotary club will throw their meetings open to the public, Mr. Bates said.

The demonstration plant is open daily for inspection. It takes sewage from the outfall sewer line and purifies it. It has been estimated that there is approximately 5000 acre feet of water reclaimable annually from the outfall line.

OLSON SPEAKS HERE TUESDAY

Senator Gilbert Olson of Los Angeles, leader of the Epic forces in California, will be guest of honor at a banquet and principal speaker at a mass meeting here tomorrow night. The dinner will take place at James cafe at 6 p. m. while the mass meeting will be in the Willard school auditorium at 8:15 p. m.

Supervisor N. E. West of Laguna Beach will introduce Senator Olson at the mass meeting, while W. Maxwell Burke, Santa Ana attorney, will preside, according to Mrs. M. Barbara Brooks of Costa Mesa, chairman of the committee on arrangements. The affair will be for the three counties in the 19th congressional district, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino.

Questions of party policy and aims will be discussed at the dinner, said Mrs. Brooks. Senator Olson is chairman of the state central committee for the Democratic party.

More than 100 reservations for the dinner already have been made, Mrs. Brooks said. Among the guests from outside the county who have been invited is Leonard Miller, liberal editor and writer. Vladimir Lenski, local violinist, and John Hart Stout, who played with the symphony orchestra at the San Diego exposition, will provide musical entertainment.

charged Senator Olson was making "a political football" of the investigation.

Sensor Olson fired back: "Your alignments were made perfectly plain during the last senate session. I know you are not interested in getting the facts I am after."

Mr. Lawler testified Mr. Anderson had made a survey showing that only six standard wells were taking oil from under the tide lands, and refused to concede that any other wells of the company were draining the oil. Settlement already has been made with the state for oil taken from the six wells, Mr. Lawler said.

Sensor Olson tried to get Mr. Lawler's permission for a committee-directed survey of all Standard wells in question, but Mr. Lawler said he was without authority to give it.

Sensor Olson then said if the company refused permission, a court order for a committee survey would be sought.

from Addis Ababa to bolster the defenses of Makale. Behind the lines, slaves by the hundreds took freedom in the Ethiopian territory already occupied by Italy after the posting of the emancipation proclamation of Gen. Emilio de Bono, high commissioner of Eritrea and Italian Somaliland, and commander in chief of the Fascist forces in East Africa.

I visited the front of Entisico, occupied by the center column under Gen. Alessandro Pirzio-Biroli, commander of the native forces in Italy's East African colonies, and witnessed the emancipation in that area.

Former slaves flocked to the tent of Count Gerald Della Porta, political commissioner of Entisico, just outside the mountain town. There were about a hundred, but Italians said many more would come in the next few days.

Porta, scion of an ancient and aristocratic Italian family including many cardinals, received the slaves graciously. All insisted on kneeling and touching their foreheads to the ground.

Declared Free
Each expressed a desire for emancipation. Porta, who spent seven years in Eritrea and speaks the Ethiopian language of Amharic, gave each a certificate of liberty, declaring him free in the name of King Victor Emanuel.

The slaves thanked him in shrill voices, bowed to the ground and retired.

Through an interpreter, I talked to one of the former slaves who said:

"I continue to work for my master."

"Then you don't dislike your master?" I asked.

"No."

"Does he pay you?"

"No, he gives me food, lodging and one complete set of garments a year."

"Then why do you stay with him?"

"Because I have been used to it for many years. My father was slave before me. I am happy."

"Are all slaves like you desiring to remain with their present masters?"

"Only about half, those working on the land. Those engaged in making things with their hands won't stay."

Porta estimated the population of the occupied territory in Tigre province at 100,000 of which he said from 15 to 20 per cent were slaves.

No Chain Slaves
Only domestic slavery, embracing household work, however, existed in this province—none of the chain variety.

Porta said the Italian government was studying the question of compensating slave owners, but indicated there was a possibility that the empire was a backward nation and unfit to belong to the League of Nations.

Ethiopians anticipated, however, that it would take a long time to change the ancient customs of Ethiopia's feudal chieftains.

LEAGUE PUNISHMENT
HAILED BY STATESMEN
(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

GENEVA, Oct. 21. The new system of sanctions against Italy, devised swiftly to cut short the warfare in Ethiopia, was interpreted by League of Nations statesmen today as a whole law for outlawry of war—all transgressors take notice!

The general view heard on all sides was that Premier Mussolini was the first victim of the commandments against war, but that the move went farther than that—the law laid down and the punishment provided striking at all aggressors.

Mussolini was given time to reflect. Unless his war in Ethiopia has been halted by Oct. 31, League of Nations will fix the fateful date for unleashing an economic boycott against Italy.

The "buy nothing from Italy" program, advanced by Anthony Eden of England, threatened by its repercussions to strangle Italy's power to purchase abroad the raw materials essential to its national life.

Orange county is going to have another election—a two-day affair. The balloting will decide this county's position on the corn-hog question.

That means that operators and owners of farms which produced field corn or hogs in 1935 can vote. That will indicate whether they favor a corn and hog adjustment program to follow that of this year, which expires Nov. 30.

The corn and hog adjustment program is a federal government project for adjusting supply and demand.

Assistant Farm Advisor W. M. Cory said today a meeting will take place at 622 North Main street, Santa Ana, at 10 a. m. Oct. 25, at which the corn and hog outlook will be explained. At this time growers may vote on

WAR ATTITUDE DEBATE TOPIC

What shall be the Christian's attitude toward war will be discussed next Tuesday night, Oct. 29, when a three-sided debate is conducted at the First Congregational church.

The debate will be in preparation for the nation-wide peace plebiscite to be conducted Nov. 3-10 by the council for social action of the Congregational and allied Christian churches of the United States.

Otto A. Jacobs, Santa Ana attorney, will contend that a Christian should hear arms and support any war which the United States may declare. W. Maxwell Burke, local attorney, will favor assistance only to a war in which United territory has been invaded, and Dr. Henry Kendall Booth, pastor of the First Congregational church, Long Beach, will argue that a Christian should not participate in any war in which the United States may declare.

Five propositions will be presented in the national plebiscite from a willingness to support any war the United States may declare to a refusal to support any possible war the nation may declare.

The meeting here will be under direction of the Fourth group of the First Congregational church under Mr. Burke's leadership.

MORE CHRISTMAS PLANS TO BE TOLD THURSDAY

Additional plans for the community Christmas celebration to be sponsored during the holidays by Santa Ana merchants will be brought to light Thursday. The retail division of the chamber, headed by J. H. Bell, will meet at the chamber on that day.

A special committee appointed to devise a new scheme for decorations is expected to make its report. The festival this year is planned to be more novel and elaborate than any so far presented. Various organizations in the city will be invited to participate to make the celebration a real community event.

A budget of $1500 has been set to finance the affair this year, compared to the $750 spent last year.

the question, using the absent voter privilege if they wish.

On the following day they may vote at the C. E. Price residence, 1001 Hickory street, Santa Ana. The polling place will be open from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. Secret ballots will be used. The decision as to whether another program will be developed rests with the producers themselves, Mr. Cory said.

and designed to remove all misunderstandings between the two governments. The French note will not be published.

Italy Keeps Out
It was also understood Mussolini gave assurance that Italy had no desire to interfere with British interests anywhere.

The atmosphere was one of relieved tension as the British parliament was summoned for an emergency session tomorrow for a three-day debate on domestic and international affairs before dissolution Friday and national elections Nov. 14.

That election, competent observers believed, would result in a renewed mandate to the national government of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin.

LAVAL GETS PEACE PLAN FROM IL DUCE

PARIS, Oct. 21. (AP)—Premier Pierre Laval was reported in unofficial circles today to have received suggestions from Premier Mussolini for settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian war.

The premier was said by these sources to be awaiting the debate in the British parliament this week before submitting the suggestions to London.

Officials declined to comment on the report, although they said "the greatest problem now seems to be to get Emperor Haile Selassie to accept Italian terms."

Premier Laval had a virtual vote of confidence today to proceed in his troublesome task of finding a way to "legalize" Italian occupation of Northern Ethiopia and to give Mussolini benefits in the rest of the empire.

The premier, after winning two seats and a double victory in the senatorial elections Sunday, enjoyed a sheaf of editorial congratulations on his peace-seeking methods.

DELAY HEARING ON JOHNSON PETITION

Hearing on the petition of Mrs. Jessie Elvira Johnson for a family allowance of $300 monthly from the estate of H. Edgar Johnson, former Fullerton publisher, scheduled for today in superior court, was continued until tomorrow morning by Judge G. K. Scovel, presiding in department 2.

Mrs. Johnson, who is contesting the late publisher's will in which he denied that she was his wife or that he was the father of her 15-year-old daughter, is asking the court to award the family allowance dating back to the date of Mr. Johnson's death last May. The will contest will be heard before a jury Nov. 18.

'LINDBERGH TRAIL' FILM TO BE SHOWN

"Flying the Lindbergh Trail" is the title of a picture which will be shown tonight at the Willard Junior High school auditorium before members of the adult education travel class. The opportunity of seeing the picture was made possible by Mrs. Julia Ann Hyde of the travel department, Commercial National bank.

"Flying the Lindbergh Trail" is the first motion picture ever made of native life deep in the Guiana jungles. The picture is in sound, and contains an especially written musical score and descriptive monologue. The film includes scenes from various South American cities, and from other interesting corners of the South American continent.

EX-PASTOR OF ANAHEIM DIES

Dr. James Allen Geissinger, recently retired superintendent of the San Diego district of the Methodist Episcopal church, died this morning at 2:25 o'clock of a heart ailment at the California hospital in Los Angeles. He was 62 years of age.

Among the many pastorates which he had served was the White Temple in Anaheim from 1921 to 1925.

Ill health had forced Dr. Geissinger to give up active work four months before the expiration of his six years of service in the San Diego district. Previously he had been pastor of the Holliston Avenue Methodist Episcopal church in Pasadena, the University church in Los Angeles, the Boyle Heights church and First M. E. in Long Beach.

Dr. Geissinger took his A. B. degree from Ohio State university in 1895, following with studies in economics at the University of Ohio, and taking his D. D. degree from the University of Southern California.

An active temperance worker, he "stumped" California for the "drys" and wrote a pamphlet, "Business is Putting Booze on the Blink," which 8,000,000 copies were circulated.

Surviving are his widow, Effie Bryan Geissinger, and sons, Wayland B. Geissinger, advertising manager of the California Fruit Growers' exchange, and Roger Geissinger, district manager of the Pacific Railways advertising, with headquarters in Seattle.

Services will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday from the Wee Kirk of the Heather, Forest Lawn Memorial park, Glendale.

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor

By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

MONDAY is the right time to start off with apologies. We're not sure that apologies are due, but Frank Rospaw attacked us because we called "Stew" Strathman by that name. He says that it should be "Stu."

Before really getting down to some heavy right-and-left-handed apologizing, we're going to investigate, and find out how he really spells his name.

BUT, what Frank and "Stew" really wanted to talk about was the silver anniversary celebration they're planning at Placentia. Seems like 25 years ago the Santa Fe ran its first train through that town, and they think that something should be done about it.

Here's what they've planned so far: Featuring the celebration will be arrival of one of those dumpy little trains which ran on the track years ago, with residents whooping and hollering as the vehicle pulls into the station. The railroad has one of the old-type engines, they report, and they're going to try and get it for the event.

Another whisker-growing contest is planned, to get residents in the right frame of mind for the celebration. Everyone will be asked to wear old-time costumes and be on hand to greet the train. A parade, in which automobiles of late years are banned, and which will feature horses and buggies, kids and whippers, will be one of the bright spots of the day.

They're trying to have Ed Gaines bring his famous stagecoach from Olinda to participate, and many other ancient vehicles will undoubtedly be unearthed from surrounding ranches to appear in the parade.

Along with other events which they are considering is a huge barbecue and dedication ceremonies for the newly-constructed Valencia High school. The latter activity will make Principal Jack Crossley happy—some people still refuse to believe that Placentia has a high school.

Guess that they can get away with a whisker-growing spree as well as Anaheim, although the Colonists are setting a mark to shoot at with their luxuriant efforts along that line.

WHO stole Costa Mesa's water? That's a question which is bothering everyone official in that community these days.

Seems like someone with a grudge or a slightly bent sense of humor started pumps and opened gates which allowed three months' supply to run every which way recently.

Officials are highly suspicious. Looks like dirt work at the pump house, what they aver. Don't blame 'em, from what we hear.

The water, 800,000 gallons of it, was stored in the Fairview Farms reservoir, on Placentia street. Somebody climbed the fence which surrounds the plant, started off the pump, opened the valves, and then threw the wrench away.

If they catch 'em, they should make the culprits drink as much water as was wasted. That'd cure 'em.

WE didn't know that goats were so important, but there's a national magazine devoted to 'em, published in Nebraska, and the publisher is thinking of moving to Costa Mesa.

Dr. C. E. Leach, business manager of the publication, was in Costa Mesa the other day, we hear, looking about for some place to land. He liked the looks of the friendly town. Maybe he'll come back, and if he does, several families will come with him.

Maybe each family'll get a free basket of groceries from the C. of C. there—that's the way they've been planning to greet newcomers.

But we've been worrying how the goats can appreciate a magazine—the only solution is that perhaps the owners read it and then the goats devour it from the front to the back page.

PLAN DISCUSSION OF HIGHWAY AT PLACENTIA TOMORROW

2 CHAMBER GROUPS TO MEET

Five Hours in Japan! Newport Group Plans Trip

Possible Routes For Road To Be Considered At Joint Conference

PLACENTIA.—Members of the Fullerton and Placentia chambers of commerce will meet here tomorrow to discuss possible continuation of Commonwealth avenue through Placentia or widening of Chapman avenue, to give motorists a direct route from Manchester avenue to Santa Ana canyon, it has been announced.

The Placentia city council has been considering construction of an 80-foot highway from Placentia avenue through either the business district, an alley north of that section or on Center street.

If the council's plans are carried out, the project would end at the eastern limits of the C. C. Chapman ranch, on a direct line with Commonwealth avenue, which runs west from Fullerton, ending at the westerly boundary of the Chapman home ranch.

Members of the Fullerton chamber have been reported as favorable to widening and continuation of the Commonwealth route, but reports today indicated that Chapman avenue is also being considered as a route.

Fullerton representatives who will meet with the Placentia group tomorrow will be R. S. Gregory, chairman of the road committee, Ted Corcoran, Bob Strain, Secretary Harry M. May and City Engineer Herman Hiltcher.

TWO NEW WELLS IN H. B. FIELD

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Marking the latest development in the "boom" in the old and new Huntington Beach oil fields, two new producers were put on the pump here Saturday, while a third well was cemented, ready to be placed on production soon.

After an unsuccessful production test at 4320, the Dorn and Baker Oil company deepened their well to 4620, where sufficient production was found for the operators to put the well on the pump. At present the well is making 75 barrels of 24-gravity oil, but the producers hope for more oil when the hole is cleaned out.

Getty Oil company's Powell well at Twenty-second street and Magnolia avenue was put on production at 3500 feet and is now making 30 barrels of 21-gravity oil per day. Dukes and Gates Oil company have cemented their well at 2600 feet, preliminary going deeper for production within a short time. The well is located on Main street near Garfield avenue.

Officials are highly suspicious. Looks like dirt work at the pump house, what they aver. Don't blame 'em, from what we hear.

The water, 800,000 gallons of it, was stored in the Fairview Farms reservoir, on Placentia street. Somebody climbed the fence which surrounds the plant, started off the pump, opened the valves, and then threw the wrench away.

Plan Entry In Armistice Day Parade; Speaker Urges Citizenship

GARDEN GROVE.—Members of the Orange County Japanese-American Citizens league, who met in the Garden Grove Woman's clubhouse Friday, made plans for entering a float in the Armistice Day parade at Anaheim and heard addresses by two speakers. Herman Zabel of the identification bureau of Orange county and Kiyoshi Okura, president of the Los Angeles chapter of the J. A. C. L. Kiyoshi Higashi of Santa Ana was named chairman of a committee to prepare the float for the parade.

Mr. Zabel spoke on fingerprinting, tracing old methods of identifying criminals and progress made in recent years. Old methods were unreliable, he said, while the art of identifying by fingerprints is a positive science.

Discussing activities of the society of which he is president, Mr. Okura said: "We are striving to make our members conscious of their citizenship through talks and contact with our city, county, state and national government officials and in addition, all are urged as American citizens to register and vote." Considerable work is being done in vocational guidance work, especially as regards young Japanese just graduating from high school, he said. In connection with this, a survey is now under way to determine the demands in professional fields for Japanese students, he added.

NEW DEAL IS PLAYED AT SALT LAKE

G. O. P. Two-Day Session Results in Plea For Democrats' Aid

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 21. (AP)—Republican leaders from eight intermountain states concluded a two-day conference here Saturday by sounding a rallying cry for the youth of the nation and "broad-minded Democrats" to join them in ousting the Democratic national administration.

Four sessions of speeches by regional and national party leaders in which the program of President Roosevelt and his associates was excoriated and plans were laid for a successful Republican campaign next year, terminated in the adoption without opposition of resolutions summing up the case as presented by the speakers.

An appeal against sectionalism and party divisions, against which warnings had been voiced in the conference, was expressed in the conclusion of the platform, which said:

"There should be no blank wall of prejudice, separating the young and the old, the stalwart and the progressive, the East and the West, the Republican and the broad-minded Democrat. Therefore we extend an invitation to all citizens to join with us in the fight for the preservation of American ideals, laws and standards of living."

Plea for Silver
Regional subjects were avoided in the resolutions with the possible exception of a declaration on silver, which demanded a sound currency and urged "that both gold and silver be fully recognized by statute as standards of value and as a basis for currency issues."

An appeal to the agricultural states was seen in the declaration:

"When the American farmer is told that he must apply for authority to plant his crop or range his herd, and that if he raises more than five bushels of potatoes he must be branded or marked or identified in some ridiculous manner, he is in effect a victim of much the same character of restrictions as those now imposed in some European nations. One hundred and thirty-five million people do not desire to be governed from Washington in all the activities of their daily life."

The Democratic administration was charged with responsibility for decreasing the value of the dollar 41 per cent; increasing the number of government employees from 565,000 to approximately 758,000, "exclusive of 100,000 part time paid members of 5000 committees and agencies trooping up and down the country in an effort to teach the people their New Deal ABC's; failure to reduce unemployment below 11,000,000 depression peak; destroying foodstuffs and necessitating the importation of foreign supplies to replace them; imposition of "thinly disguised taxation upon farmers and all who work on own property" to support the government program; lowering the tariff bars by Presidential order to foreign foodstuffs and admitting minerals through foreign trade agreements.

Rap Economy Bill
Government in business was condemned as retarding re-employment and placing an unjust burden upon private industry. Of the veterans the resolution said:

"We deplore the injustices of the so-called economy bill which took from veterans the compensation and allowances voted under Republican administration."

James D. Parriott of Denver, one of Saturday's speakers, charged that the Democratic administration has "tammanized the entire nation" through the use of public funds.

Old Issues Denied
"The Democrats can't bring order out of this chaos," he said. "The Republicans might with the help of local Democrats, who are already becoming vocal in denouncing existing conditions."

Harold Anderson of Nevada urged that the Republicans "bring the campaign down to date." Time-worn issues, he declared, have no appeal to the young independent voter upon whom the party must depend for success.

Cleveland Fowler of California urged that the party "clean our own house before starting in on the other fellow."

His Excellency—

The Governor of Missouri

VIRTUALLY overnight Guy B. Park, an obscure country circuit judge, became governor of his native state when his lifelong personal friends and fellow townsman, Francis M. Wilson, died shortly before election day. . . . Deliberate in his decisions, he is essentially a judge when he weighs problems of state. . . . An admirer of good horseflesh, he attends the Kentucky derby with old cronies. . . . quite often picks winners. . . . proud of his alma mater, the University of Missouri. . . . his friends say he fishes "as he judged," slowly and deliberately. . . . Giving "business" as an excuse, he makes many week-end trips to St. Louis to entertain his infant grandson, Guy Park Krause. . . . only child of his only child. . . . Only when he makes a formal address to the legislature does he prepare a speech in advance. . . . drives his own car when he goes fishing. . . . plans his speeches while riding to his destination. . . . wants to see his university put out a championship football team. . . . Mrs. Park's great problem is keeping the governor from indulging his sweet tooth too often.

VISITING JUDGE DEPARTS Caminetti Career Active

A. Caminetti, jr., Amador county's "fighting judge" who has been sitting in superior court here for the past month, left Saturday for Santa Barbara where he will occupy the bench for a short time. As he has not been in his home city, Jackson, Amador county, but six weeks since Jan. 1, Judge Caminetti is anxious to return. He has been on assignments to various superior courts of the state for almost the entire year.

Judge Caminetti holds a record that is not equaled by any jurist in the state. In the past three years he has been elected twice to the office he now holds. The first time he was elected was when he ran as a candidate to break what was termed a "political ring" that assertedly dominated the county. The second election was last November when an attempt was made to recall him.

Starred Newspaper
The recall election was instituted after Judge Caminetti had appointed a grand jury that, after investigations, indicted the sheriff, district attorney, county treasurer and auditor. Petitions for the recall, it is said, were circulated with pay checks at the mines. The result of the election was that Judge Caminetti was returned to office by a majority double the one by which he originally was elected.

So bitter was the campaign against the recall that Judge Caminetti was forced to publish his own newspaper, as all papers in the county were opposed to him and refused him space. Threats of death and other attempts to intimidate the jurist marked the struggle.

U. C. Graduate
The son of A. Caminetti, former district attorney, congressman from Amador county, state senator and United States commissioner of immigration under President Wilson, the jurist was born in Jackson. Graduating from University of California he started practicing law in San Francisco in 1912. For 20 years he was in the legal department of the General Petroleum Corporation before returning to his home to look after properties belonging to his mother.

The political battle started even before he decided to run for the one superior court post in the county. When he finally did enter the race the entire county administration turned its guns on him. Attempts at offering bribery and to secure an indictment against him were resorted to after his victory at the polls. These attempts failed and for the time being, everything is quiet on the front but, as the judge says, "you never can tell." That is why he is anxious to return to Jackson with his wife.

MAHER COUNTY
Created March 11, 1893, "Madera" in Spanish signifies "timber," and the county got its name from the town of Madera, situated within its limits, which town originally was surrounded by groves of trees.

Fertile plains and valleys, rich foothills carpeted by vast stretches of orchards, a wealth of mineral deposits and scenic mountain regions with dense forests of pine and fir are nature's gifts to Madera. Within this county lies a part of Yosemite National park and a large portion of the Sierra National forest. In northeastern Madera is one of California's national monuments, a strange formation of rock called the Devil's Postpile composed of tall posts of hard rock, six-sided and fitting closely together, resembling the Giant's Causeway in Ireland.

An attraction to motorists is the Madera-Mariposa Big Tree Route known as "Discovery Road," traversing much of the territory over which Major Savage and the Mariposa battalion, in early days, chased a band of marauding Indians who had hiding places in unknown canyons in the higher mountains. While on the heels of a fleeing band of redskins Major Savage and his men reached the rim of the "Valley of Valleys." Ahead was such a gorgeous view that they reined in their horses, chafed and gazed with startled wonder. They had discovered Yosemite.

Madera soils are those of the rich San Joaquin valley and the county's agricultural products cover a wide range. Population: 17,164. Area: 2112 square miles.

CRASH INJURES PAIR
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21. (AP)—Lieut. C. E. Whittcomb, army reserve pilot, and Robert Hubbard, reserve private, nursed minor injuries today received when their plane crashed into a San Fernando valley ridge. Sheriff's deputies administered emergency treatment to the pair.

How Counties In State Got Their Names

The story of how California counties derived their names is an interesting part of the history of the Golden State. Believing that the thousands of tourists who annually motor over the state's great highway system would like to know how the counties they visit came by their names, Director of Public Works Earl W. Kelly has prepared from state records a series of brief stories of the origin and meaning of the names of the counties of California, including a few salient facts about each county.

'REDS' QUIET ON MONGOLIA RELATIONS

TOKYO, Oct. 21. (AP)—A foreign office spokesman said today that an official request to the Soviet ambassador to make a clear statement of the relations between Outer Mongolia, Chinese province, and Soviet Russia has gone unanswered.

He was commenting on reports from Ulan Bator, capital of the Mongolian peoples' republic, that Japanese and Manchukuoan forces have threatened to invade the republic.

Veil of Mystery
Manchukuo is trying to lift a veil of mystery from Outer Mongolia, the official said, and introduce the province to the outside world, as the United States opened up Japan 80 years ago. Previously, he added, Soviet Russia has prevented the accomplishment of this result.

The inquiry addressed to the foreign office for comment was based on information from Ulan Bator that the Manchukuoan delegation to the Manchuli conference had threatened to use force or occupy Ulan Bator unless Outer Mongolia accepted Manchukuo's demands.

No Threat of Force
The foreign office admitted Manchukuoans had been pressing a proposal for an exchange of diplomatic agents, those from Manchukuo to be stationed at Ulan Bator and Hsingking. He added, however, there was nothing in the official dispatches to indicate threats of employment of force had been used to support this demand.

A Moscow dispatch yesterday recited the Soviet union betrayed symptoms of alarm at the prospect of the occupation of Ulan Bator by Japanese and Manchukuoan forces. The Soviet advisers said a threat to effect occupation was made to Mongolian delegates to a mixed border commission investigating border disputes.

SCIENCE CHURCH TOPIC 'DOCTRINE OF ATONEMENT'

"Doctrine of Atonement" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston Mass. A Bible selection in the Lesson-Sermon cited these verses from the epistle to the Hebrews, "Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God."

One of the comparative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: "If Truth is overcoming error in your daily walk and conversation, you can finally say, 'I have fought a good fight . . . I have kept the faith,' because you are a better man. This is having our part in the atonement with Truth and Love."

ENEMY OF WAR DIES IN PEACE

LONDON, Oct. 21. (AP)—Arthur Henderson, implacable foe of war, died without knowing his great dream of world peace had been shattered by the boom of guns in East Africa. Attaches of the West End nursing home where the president of the World Disarmament conference died last night, disclosed today that Mr. Henderson—whose indefatigable crusade for peace was inspired by the death of his eldest son in the World war—had not seen a newspaper for six weeks. Scores of the nation's leaders intent on forging Great Britain's foreign policy where he left off in 1931, when the Labor government fell, paid him tribute as a gentle, beloved idealist known as "Uncle Arthur." Mr. Henderson won the Nobel peace prize in 1934.

P. T. A. SUGGESTS THREE 'BESTS' IN MONTH'S FILMS

If the family's in the mood for a movie this month, three "bests" are suggested by the Parent-Teacher association movie committee. "The Bishop Behaves," a mystery comedy, starring Edmund Gwenn, Maureen O'Sullivan, Lucile Watson and Etienne Girardot, is reported to be a "wholesome, jolly story with lively dialogues, interesting shots of an old English inn, the Bishop's study and scenes in Limehouse." "The well chosen cast gives most satisfying performances," is the comment on "Shipmates Forever," a social drama, directed by Frank Borzage. Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Lewis Stone and Ross Alexander take the leads. Bringing the "Count of Monte Cristo" back to the screen, "Thirty-Nine Steps," from Fox, is declared to have effective backgrounds and excellent photography. Briefly the plot centers around a young Canadian who becomes involved in a murder and is successful playing a strong hand in the capture of a notorious gang of spies.

LONE BIDDER GIVEN U.S. CONTRACT

Pan - American Airways Only Line To Seek Ocean Business

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—The Pan-American Airways company was the only bidder today for the mail contract for air mail service from San Francisco to Canton, China.

The company bid maximum rates allowed under the law for the route—$2.00 per mile for the specified load of 800 pounds and $1 per 1000 miles for each additional pound of mail carried. Pan-American officials indicated privately they might be ready to start service by Nov. 15.

The 8000 mile route will carry mail and passengers from San Francisco to China by way of Honolulu and Manila.

The company is completing its fourth survey flight to Guam. Although it has not flown over all parts of the proposed route, airline officials said they had already made survey flights over "the hardest part."

The Pan-American bid was handed to Postmaster General Farley a few seconds before a post-office buzzer signaled 12 noon, the hour for opening the bids. Juan T. Tripp is president of the Pan-American.

Orange Christian Church Is Ebell Nursery Party Plans Complete

Yellow dahlias and button chrysanthemums marked the aisles to an altar banked with huge yellow chrysanthemums, orange dahlias, palms and double rows of candles, when Miss Dorothy M. Finley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Finley, 409 North Shaffer street, Orange, became the bride of Leeson Frederick Pomeroy, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Pomeroy, 616 Zeyn street, Anaheim, in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Franklin H. Minck, pastor of the Orange Christian church, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the church.

The bride was groomed in white eau de soie, train length, with large sleeves. Her veil had a lace cap and halo. She carried gardenias and lilies of the valley. The matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Miller, wore antique ivory satin-backed crepe and an ivory hat and carried tulle roses. Bridesmaids were Miss Cecil Nichols, wearing brown satin-backed crepe; Miss Clara Pitchen in burnt orange; Miss Mary Malsed, Santa Ana, in rust crepe; and Miss Lois Reeves, in tile gown. All wore small matching hats with halos, and carried yellow rosebuds tied with big yellow satin bows. A junior bridesmaid was Miss Mildred Bowman, Los Angeles, who wore cream-colored floor-length taffeta and carried tulle roses.

The bride's mother wore turquoise lace and the bridegroom's mother dark green crepe. Both wore gardenia corsages. Wray Pomeroy served his brother as best man. Ushers were Loren Finley, brother of the bride, Victor Masters, Richard Frank and Ralph McBride.

Before the ceremony, Mrs. Alice Des Larzes Dunlap played several numbers on the organ, and accompanied Gordon Drew, Fullerton, as he sang "Beloved It Is Morn." "Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "At Dawning." The wedding march was played by Mrs. Dunlap at the organ, and Maryester Wood at the piano.

Mary Stoddard Choose Wisely The Things Which Need Frank Comment If You Expect To Keep Friends

How can a tactless person control a too-frank tongue? That is a problem that many more people may well ask—and heed well the answer.

A common fault is the tendency to "speak our minds"—and excuse the rudeness by saying, "I'm going to be honest, no matter what people think."

This letter came to my desk today:

"Dear Miss Stoddard: I am a girl of 16, and have lived in Santa Ana all my life. Now I find I have not one real friend. Just recently one of my girl friends—an ex-one—told me why other girls do not care for me. It seems that I am too frank and tactless. Although I mean to be nice to them, I sometimes say something, not meaning to. My mother told me the best policy was to keep my mouth shut. Please tell me what I can do to have some real friends. LONELY AS THE CLOUDS."

It is fortunate you recognize your fault while you are young enough to correct it. Too many people go through life being what they call "frank"—whereas their frankness is just inexcusable rudeness.

"Try Thinking" Have you tried thinking before you speak? Think how your remark would sound to you if someone else made it. Instead of saying positively: "That's a very unbecoming dress," try to find something pleasant to say—"That new skirt length looks good on you"—it isn't a matter of lying—but of simply avoiding blurring out unpleasant truths.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their opinion on topics of particular interest to women.

How long do you think people should know each other before married?

Mrs. H. T. Jones: I think they should know each other long enough to decide whether or not they are really in love. It is too late after marriage to regret a lack of consideration or any other failing between a couple, which might have been discovered before they were married.

Mrs. Maude Brown: I think they should know each other for several months, but not wait for a year or two. In time, people tend to wear each other out and lose track of their first intention to be married. Our parents who married after a short time of knowing each other are in most cases still happily married, while to delay too long is to lose the zest and romance of being in love, I should say.

Mrs. George Krock: They should know each other four months at least. I should think that long a time would give them a pretty good idea of each other's natures.

Mrs. Percy Everett: It depends on the individual; an impulsive person should take longer, but people who can think things through clearly would not need to know each other so long. Very young people should be acquainted longer, because at that age, young people often change their minds.

A SERIES OF IFS

IF THE water bond project recently defeated by the voters was not satisfactory, what project is satisfactory?

If those who objected to the plan do not offer something better, how is Orange county going to solve this ever-pressing and insistent problem?

It would appear that the responsibility now rests with those who resisted the plan offered by the engineers, and submitted to the voters through regular official channels.

If the former set-up was unsatisfactory, adjustments and compromises should be sought without impairment to the value of the promotion.

If voters objected to what some accepted as political interference, then care should be taken to prevent politics from defeating an economic issue.

If the project as presented seemed to offer too much of an official dictation, then it should take on an impersonal leadership.

The issue transcends personal interest. Even those who opposed the plan as submitted October 4, admit it to be an imperative issue.

It would seem that the divergent interests, which in the final analysis, must converge into a friendly interest, should find some plan of unification satisfactory to the required two-thirds majority.

The Journal hopes and believes it can be done.

A HARD-HITTING HOOVER

(From the Christian Science Monitor)

WHETHER Herbert Hoover intends to seek renomination for president at the hands of the Republican party in 1936 may remain an enigma, but the vigor of his speech to the Western States Young Republicans' convention at Oakland, Calif., left no doubt that he could be a colorful and aggressive campaigner.

The trenchant cogency of his attack on New Deal spending policies must have been something of a surprise to any who thought him overtly quiet and passive. Crisp phrases crackled in every paragraph. Yet this was not so much a new Hoover as a reappearance of the fighting Hoover who came forward in the speeches of the last days of the 1932 campaign.

As to the subject matter, the former president indisputably has big figures to talk about when he challenges the expenditures of his successor in office. But whether he and his party can point to any alternative method of meeting the depression that would not have imposed intolerable burdens of another sort on the people is not so clear. Surely any administration would have had to place budget balancing secondary to human suffering. And the use of work relief instead of a dole has had pretty wide public support based in part on Mr. Hoover's example.

But much more important than recrimination about water over the dam is the bearing of what the former president says about financial policies of the immediate future. Certainly he is right in holding that the growth of political bureaucracy must be curbed and that the time now has come for drastic budget-balancing effort before an irresistible tide toward inflation sets in. The budget which President Roosevelt must submit in January and the action of congress upon it will largely determine how effective an issue the Republican party will have.

When Mussolini's newspapers sass England and she answers by mobilizing the world's greatest fleet in the Mediterranean, that's repartee!

PRESS-SCHOOL COOPERATION

OVER in London, the newspapers are becoming a great aid to the public schools system.

It seems that the editor of the Daily Express started out by asking all readers to make proposals for using the newspapers in classrooms and was flooded with meaty ideas. Here are some of them which English boys and girls are now trying in schools—

Study advertisements, and then write specimen "ads" on similar lines.

Read of accidents—discuss the possibility of their being avoided.

Read of events in other lands, and then (when it occurs in France) write the paragraph in French as it would appear in a French newspaper.

Use news photographs and cartoons for art lessons.

Appoint a boy or group of boys to cover a particular country. Each day the columns of the Daily Express are scanned by the "correspondents" for news of their allotted territory.

Summary of the day's news written up in notebooks.

On Friday afternoons the "correspondents" read their news summaries to the whole class. Places mentioned are indicated on atlas.

Pupils are encouraged to bring clippings from the newspaper of current events that appeal to them. These are exhibited and discussed.

Learn to spell all words unknown, pupils searching dictionaries.

School teachers say, according to word from abroad, that use of the newspapers puts a real fillip into the classrooms. Parents report that their children get a broader, more liberal education.

The general idea of press-school cooperation is not new here. The Journal enjoys a close relationship with local teachers and students.

It seems to us, however, that the English have opened a field which we haven't touched yet.

Instead of food, Chicago man buys liquor with money obtained by paving wife's false teeth. Now she can't even bite the hand that doesn't feed her.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

In the manner of Arnold Bennett's journal: I was wondering this morning if any man can sit cross-legged in his dressing gown listening to his wife and not dangle a slipper from his toes. Chic Sale's Abe Lincoln movie short is a gem. I'm up with my work schedule the first time this year.

They were gabbing in the other room about a new style. I was tempted to horn in and exclaim: "Ladies, when you see a gown not beautiful, now ugly, then beautiful again, you have a truly Parisian creation. Buy it!" We saw Ethel Roche off for Palm Beach today. Brave lady.

A bewildered hotspur from Cat Corner, N. C., telegraphs from Grand Central: "Who invented this horrible polio-vaccination of taxis, flukes and lampshade geofooks?" Sound like Eva Tanguay and Fifi D'Orsay in a shimmy contest. I was in a blaze again at breakfast about the radio.

Why do radio bleaters all croon just alike? To turn the dial through the sighing of squawking seagulls, crooners, drawlers, whiners, moaners, dulers, mewlers and such. O, well! And why the insincerity and falsified rising of inflections in radio sketches? Why not come out and say it with conviction?

The saddest time of year is when a man has to listen to style's fee-faw-fum and give up his lively surtouts, the white flannels and blazers, for sombre winter regalia. We love to be gaudy and the only vanity of winter is a fur-collared coat. And the man doesn't live who, in a fur-collared coat doesn't look like a ham actor or corn dealer. That goes for even Justice Hughes. An A. P. man in Kansas City sends an euphonic honey. A radio lady named Wauhillau—pronounced Waw-hill-uh—Lahay. I hear the Arkansas Senator Robinson's spats may defeat him for reelection. Tsk, tsk!

I called on the haberdashing brothers McCrory, who make Roy Howard's giddy shirts, for samples today. I saw a fellow from London at Major Bowes' with shirting of alternate pencil stripes, dove gray and cream, touched off with a four-in-hand solid black, startling effect. But my efforts to be sartorially imitative suggest a Dakota modiste copying a Parisian style. Charles Correll, Andy of the radio blackamoors, is learning to fly his own plane. Daily he flies over Oscar Shaw's Long Island estate and waves. My pipe smoking friend of Hampton magazine days, T. Everett Harre, turns in a rousing panshell with "The Heavenly Sinner," a biography of the magnificent courtesan, Lola Montez, done with all the sensuousness of an animal licking its young.

M. came in white faced awhile ago to inquire if there could possibly be anything so frightening as the sudden runnig amok of a wild window shade, jumping with a swish to the ceiling? I thought of a dandy friend. In a dinky tavern outside Reno one sun-up a cow stuck its head in my window and moored. I did a sitting jump over the footboard. Why is everything in New York priced 69 cents? Or why do lone gray-haired women begin restaurant dinner with a cigarette?

Someone told me Ray Noble, the left-handed leader, circles a cancan ring around his necktie. An old-fashioned revival, Lord Ribblesdale started it in Britain in the Edwardian era. The only exponent I ever saw were Ralph Barton, Lew Cody and William Gillette. I like to round that southwest swing of Central park at sundown with out-of-town visitors and call attention quite casually, to the skyline. It never fails to excite oo's. What a painting for Maxfield Parrish. Or an etching by Fred Detweiler.

A Montreal lady wires about a name for a new-born son. Jay strikes me as being up for a boy. Vindictive back-country, substantial. Five fine-charactered fellows with that name come to me—Jay E. House, Jay N. Darling, Jay Price, Jay E. Kaufman and Jay Jerome Williams. Afterthought: Where a more fitting name for a comedian than Jay Flippen? I beheld The Most Heartless Man in the World today. He passed a window of pathetic, friendless but O, so friendly puppies moping in paper scraps in a dog shop without stopping. Gave only a glance. Amon Carter was telling about lunching with Will Rogers in the Seattle restaurant. Garner and Alice Longworth of investments. Two per cent interest. Inquired Mrs. Longworth: "Will, what are you going to do with your savings?" He squirmed, cuffed his cowlick and drawled: "I guess I'm goin' to be puttin' mine into taxes!" Aren't we all?

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—A head-on collision over neutrality legislation is brewing behind the scenes. The present law expires Feb. 29. Meanwhile the state department is at work on a bill, to be offered as the administration's measure, which would give the President wide discretionary power. On the other hand, Senators Nye, Bone and Clark, authors of the original neutrality proposals, plan to renew their demand for a law mandatorily banning munitions, loans and war materials of all kinds to foreign belligerents. . . . Floyd Dell, widely known novelist, is the latest addition to the WPA's writers' division. . . . If Chairman Henry Fletcher has his way, the meeting of the Republican national committee, tentatively scheduled for early December, will not be held in Washington.

Fletcher favors a mid-western city, first because it is more centrally located, second because the atmosphere of the capital is too Democratic. . . . After much uncertainty, the federal trade commission finally has been supplied with funds to start the senate-order nationwide probe of food prices. An appropriation of $150,000 to make the survey was completed, but Huey Long's filibuster of the deficiency bill prevented the grant. After several months of searching the budget bureau found a way to make $75,000 available to the FTC, which will suffice until congress meets.

GOING, GOING—

THE inner circle is buzzing with a report that Madame Secretary Perkins soon may retire from the cabinet. Her absence from Washington for nearly two months is lending strong color to the whisper. Reports are that Miss Perkins is being tempted with the job of heading a nationally-known college. However, the rumor should be taken with a grain of salt. Miss Perkins is ardently attached to her job and proud of her high official eminence. . . . Employees of the Works Progress administration have been instructed never to refer to the McLean mansion, recently reported for office space by Harry Hopkins. Instead, they must use "1500 Eye street." Even verbal use of "McLean mansion" is frowned on.

A drive to line up the lawyers of the country against the administration has been quietly launched by the Liberty League. The entire membership of the American Bar association is being circulated with application blanks to join the league's committee of lawyers which "handed down" an unofficial opinion holding the Wagner labor disputes act unconstitutional. . . . A snappy long-distance telephone call from the Federal Alcohol administration the other day, caused an eastern brewery hastily to withdraw a full-page advertisement that carried a picture of the President and the line: "Mr. President, we thank you."

HIGH PRESSURE SELLING

DAN ROPER's department of commerce is staging a high pressure sales act in the interest of U. S. aircraft manufacturers. By inviting South American aviation officials to Washington, then allowing private companies to spirit them over the nation's airways, the idea of U. S. superiority in aircraft is being driven home.

The act was timed to beat Europe to this new market. French, German, and Italian companies will try to sell their aeronautical stuff at a conference in Lima, Peru, next month. It is no figure of speech to say that William Warner Durbin is the New Deal's master of money magic. As register of the treasury, he handles government securities. But in spare time he is an amateur magician, taking money out of the air and making it vanish again. He is president of the International Brotherhood of Magicians. . . . In the main office of the Lynchburg, Va., News and Advocate, published by Virginia's senator-journalist Carter Glass, is a bronze bust of Carter Glass. . . . Homer Price Rainey, New Deal's latest brain trust, was a professional ball player before he became president of Bucknell university. Since quitting the Texas league, Rainey has gone in for tennis and vocal virtuosity. Booked for a part in "The Messiah," he sang lustily through an hour's rehearsal, directly after having cleaned up the Bucknell tennis championship. In Washington he will be another adviser on youth.

Revolt against California's sales tax was staged by her would-be governor the other day. Upton Sinclair had a 15-cent ice cream soda in a Pasadena drug store, refused to pay the extra penny, walked out, saying, "The sales tax is illegal." . . . Reports reach Harry Hopkins' office from Miami that the new community building, a WPA project, is ready for the roof-though the cornerstone is not yet laid. The formality of laying the cornerstone, scheduled originally for Labor day, was rudely interrupted by the hurricane. . . .

STEADY JOB

CAPT. PHILIP H. CROOK, head of the supreme court's newly organized private police force, knows a good thing when he sees it. Father of two young sons, he says he hopes they will become justices. Explains Crook: "It's a steady job, and you certainly can't beat the hours." . . . Owing to the limited wireless facilities in Addis Ababa it sometimes takes the state department 18 to 20 hours to get a message through to the American consul general in the Ethiopian capital. . . . Senator Hiram Johnson's failure to call or communicate with Roosevelt while he is in California is causing considerable conjecture. Johnson was scheduled to be present at the Boulder dam ceremonies, but wired that he was ill. The President's entourage expected a visit or some welcoming message when Roosevelt got to California. But nothing was heard from Johnson.

Ray Murphy, six-foot, 230-pound new national commander of the American Legion, bears a striking facial and tonsorial resemblance to Big Jim Farley, frequently mistaken for him. Murphy says that when he was in Washington last spring, "I was so pestered with job-hunters who thought I was Farley that to get rid of them I almost had to make appointments to see them later." . . . Claude Bowers, noted historian, orator and American ambassador to Spain, is President Roosevelt's choice for keynote at the Democratic convention next year. Bowers has accepted the invitation to make this speech.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE.—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

America's 'Holler Than Thou' Attitude

AMERICANS have little excuse for pointing the finger of scorn at the weaknesses of the League of Nations. Since its untimely birth 15 years ago we have done little except discount it, ridicule it and snipe at it from a safe distance.

The forlorn orphan has been kicked about from pillar to post. And when other nations, grasping for hope, pin their faith to it we mock their efforts and strut about with superior wisdom and virtue.

OF COURSE, no world organization can even begin to function effectively with America outside the picture. Without Woodrow Wilson's vision, purpose and high resolve, without the expected support of the American people in this practical attempt to establish peace, the league would never have come to light at all.

Here was the supreme tragedy and farce of one nation accepting the role of leader in a new game, getting all of the others lined up and then going off and letting them worry along as best they could.

Like swiping a wheel and then hooting because the car doesn't run.

Lemon Juice

Howdy, folks! Things would be better in Europe if the big dogs of war hadn't left so many bones around for the little dogs of war to fight over.

America may tax the whole people for the sake of a few, but that is better than Europe's plan of taxing the whole people for the sake of a feud.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS FOR HIRE

Football coaches, do you want a good plugging fullback, a 230-pound tackle, or perhaps a fleet-footed quarterback? Then apply to the Joseph G. Bungstarter Gridiron Employment Service, Inc. First-class football guards furnished for the season for only $500, plus board, tuition and a percentage of the gate receipts. Forward passers cheap at $200, or will work for 2 cents a yard. Tall, rangy ends, excellent pass receivers, in odd lots, at $75 cash, guaranteed to be sound in wind and limb. Write for free circular.

Li'l Gee Gee remarks— I don't mind the people who live upstairs playing ping-pong, only I wish they wouldn't play it with a bowling ball.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Experience is the boozy prize one acquires after he hasn't any use for it.

They say in England that it takes three generations to make a gentleman; but in America you get two generations off for good behavior.

YE DIARY

Up betimes, and to taking my morning tub, but could find naught of soap; and so, throwing on my bathrobe, to talking about the house, mousing fierce words; but before I could get to Babie Juice had used up all the soap, making a kitchen sink, a bathtub, a bookcase and a marble fireplace for her doll house, a blessing on the industrious little cherub! And so to breakfast.

Purse $400, three-year-olds and upward; one mile and a sixteenth. Time—1:47. Weather clear; track fast.

Murray tells me these pulsations reach a climax in about 14 days and that about 80 per cent of the storms will reach us here in our semi-arid area, and 95 per cent arrive within two or three days of the peak or climax of the pulsations.

I suppose in order to complete this diagnosis I should stick out my tongue.

Murray takes this weather forecasting seriously. He has been working at it for the past 10 years. He says: "So many fake hocus-pocus weather prophets have made this diagnosis so simple a fact before them. It is such a simple natural phenomenon that the big fellow just passes it over. The theory is based on the opposition of two electro-magnetic fields caused by two celestial bodies—our earth and the moon. We are all familiar with tidal action, this is gravity, but what is gravity? The atmosphere being many times less dense requires a more favorable combination to act upon it and is of somewhat different nature. We have many kinds of electricity."

If the wealth of this country were distributed 50 per cent would be destroyed by the act of distribution. The resulting starvation and anarchy would destroy the rest in less than 30 days.—J. F. Lincoln, Cleveland power executive.

I am all set for the campaign, but what chance have the Republicans in the presidential race? Senator James A. Couzens (Rep.), Michigan.

I end the quote so that my readers may have possession of the Murray system. The kind of electricity I get is called to my attention every thirty days. But I agree with Murray "there are others" and what they can do to an orange grove still remains in my recollection of uncomfortable nights. Murray, I'm glad I wrote about the storm scheduled for one October, but that's an unwelcome desert wind, but that doesn't lessen my appreciation of your forecasts, which I shall follow till the season ends. Only for the love of Mike and the Orange county ranchers—make it wet.

In the interim—that's between rains—keep the home charts handy. You know it's always fair weather when good fellows get together, so don't let 'em congregate on you during the prediction dates. Keep 'em separated. The chances for a storm are better. Then we've been along when a lot of good fellows got together and it created such a storm it took the police force to quell it.

That storm you got scheduled for the twelfth of November is just right. The next day is my anniversary appearance, and I know about half a dozen other guys who are proud of their four inches of rain on the twelfth you can bet your life on the thirteenth there will be a celebration in perfect harmony with the weather. All kiddin' out of the picture. I still remain yours truly for a wet winter, with many happy returns of the season.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

With C. F. (Skinny) SKRIVIN

The weather. My good friend Martin Murray of Huntington Beach thinks some one sent me the wrong dope with reference to his forecasts, which resulted in a disappointment as to failure of a downpour to arrive last Wednesday. I quote a Huntington Beach dispatch under date of Oct. 14: "Martin G. Murray, local weather observer today warned citizens to be ready for the heaviest rain of the season Wednesday." As Amos says: "End quote."

I offer this as rebuttal and assure Martin that I will make no correction, as the average newspaper alibi is usually worse than the original statement. However, it is refreshing to get his explanation. Most weather prophets are as temperamental as a grand opera singer. Murray is different. He just goes on in a communication to tell me about atmospheric pulsations, something about his theory being based on two electro-magnetic fields coming in contact with two celestial bodies. You see Murray isn't taking any advantage. That makes an even contest. Then there are competing kinds of electricity, gravity, aridity influences, and other interfering complications.

Let me tell you sumpin', Martin, there are more people interested in your predictions than there are in the Ethiopian war, so far as Southern California is concerned. Why, before Gin Chow went away ranchers followed his forecasts with religious fervor. You thought I didn't know that Gin turned in his card. So that's another reason why you should get a more tenacious hold and prepare some sort of a chart which you could distribute as official to those who would be willing to pay the carrying charges.

Oh, well, Murray, your explanations compensate for my disappointment. You just keep on trying and get a rain in here before the first of November, and you will save me an irrigation bill. If you don't send the water the Anaheim Eucalyptus company will, but they follow it in about three weeks with a statement. Those earthly pulsations are all right, but I rather see 'em cough up a good storm with plenty of moisture in it.

Murray tells me these pulsations reach a climax in about 14 days and that about 80 per cent of the storms will reach us here in our semi-arid area, and 95 per cent arrive within two or three days of the peak or climax of the pulsations.
